Florida Virtual School® Announces 2020 Assistant Principal of the Year

Orlando, FL (Feb. 13, 2020) – Florida Virtual School (FLVS®), a statewide online public school district, recently announced the FLVS representative for the Florida Department of Education’s 2020 Assistant Principal of the Year program is Wilbern Simpson.

Wilbern Simpson, the assistant principal for FLVS Full Time High School, demonstrates the qualities of teamwork and leadership by pioneering programs, techniques, and strategies that help students overcome obstacles to reach their full learning potential. He implemented and developed a virtual Response to Intervention and Multi-Tiered Systems of Support (MTSS) schoolwide framework to support struggling learners. As a result, the MTSS became a team function and not a process, providing students and families the additional learning support they needed to succeed.

“I work with an amazing group of people who make it their daily mission to impact students and to help those students meet their academic goals,” said Simpson. “I am humbled by my colleagues’ recognition and grateful for the team that I support. Together, we are changing the world at Florida Virtual School...one student at a time!”

“Wil Simpson empowers his teachers. They feel valued and encouraged to make decisions that are student-centered and impactful to his team and our students,” said Robin Winder, Senior Director of Instruction for FLVS. “He has an unwavering commitment to help students succeed and understands the importance of inspiring others toward excellence in education.”

Wilbern Simpson is a resident of Lakeland, Florida.
